

AWAS delivers additional new A320 passenger aircraft to Vueling

Successful pan-European low cost airline grows to meet passenger demand, expanding relationship with AWAS

Dublin, 26th May 2015

AWAS announced today that it has delivered one new A320 passenger aircraft to Vueling, the Spanish low cost airline. This eighth A320 delivery from AWAS is from the lessor's existing new order pipeline and is factory-fitted with advanced Sharklets.

This advanced end-of-wing Sharklet system has been developed by Airbus to save airlines up to $270k on fuel per aircraft each year along with several higher performance and lower maintenance benefits. Importantly, Sharklets can also save over 730t less CO² emissions annually per aircraft.

Vueling is the second largest Spanish airline, a new generation airline that offers competitive prices while providing a wide range of value added services and products that meet the needs of both business and leisure passengers.

The company serves over 150 destinations covering the main cities in Spain, Europe, North Africa and the Near East, with direct flight or flights with connection in Barcelona and Rome.
